

Social and Personal

The wedding of Miss Louisa Marguerite Warwick to Mr. John Sidney Davenport was celebrated at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, the Rev. J. J. Gravatt, D. D., being the celebrant.

Church and altar decorations in palms and southern smilax were most beautiful. From the cross on the altar as a center, eighteen candlesticks, with tall, white wax tapers, extended, silencing the smilax in which they were wreathed, and producing a very effective design in illumination. During the impressive reading of the marriage service Miss Reinhardt played Mendelssohn's "Spring Song" and "Evening Star" from Tannhauser. While guests were assembling, and when the bridal party entered and left the church, appropriate musical selections were rendered by Mr. H. M. Phillips.

The color scheme was handsomely developed in yellow, the bridesmaids: Miss Isabel Davenport, of New York; Miss Edwina Burrows, of Saginaw, Mich.; Miss Charlotte Ward, of Rochester, N. Y.; Miss Evelyn Briggs, of Philadelphia; Miss Adeline Henry, of Richmond; Miss Pauline Powers, of Washington, D. C.; and Miss Clara Cooke, of Lower Breton, Va., wearing lovely costumes of daffodil yellow liberty satin, garnished in Mexican lace, with white lace hats trimmed in daffodils. Their flowers were shower bouquets of Golden Rose roses tied with lulle.

Preceding the bride came her two sisters, Miss Imogen Warwick, the maid of honor, and Miss Evelyn Davenport, the flower girl. They were in white, point d'esprit over yellow, with white lace hats, and carried roses.

The bride's gown was white chantilly lace above white chiffon and satin. The folds of her veil were caught with a pearl brooch worn on the occasion of her wedding by her great-grandmother. The bride and recently reset for Miss Warwick. In her hand she held a shower of lilies of the valley.

Mr. Julien Carter, of Baltimore, was best man. Groomsmen were Mr. Adrian Onderdonk, of Hagerstown, Md.; Mr. Reynolds, of Zeig, Pa.; Mr. Archibald Langford, and Mr. William Gaylord, of New York; Mr. Alexander Randolph, Holladay, Mr. Hunsdon Cary, Mr. Philip St. George Cooke and Mr. Edward T. Harrison.

Mrs. Byrd Warwick, the bride's mother, gave her away.

The ceremony was followed by a brilliant reception held in the Warwick home, No. 608 West Franklin Street. Halls and parlors were canvassed in white. Mantels were banked in ferns. Palms and southern smilax made elaborate hall and parlor adornment. In the dining room white roses and maiden-hair ferns were used, the table having a lovely French gilt centerpiece, filled with roses and ferns, and surrounded with antique French gilt candelabra holding white candles.

Mrs. Warwick, who stood with the bride couple to receive the guests, wore black chiffon velvet with violets. Her ornaments were diamonds.

Mrs. John S. Davenport, of New York, the mother of the groom, was in black spangled net with sequin fringe and pearls.

Guests at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. John S. Davenport, Miss Davenport, Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Knapp, Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Miller, of New York; Mr. George Burrows and Miss Sage Burrows, of Saginaw, Mich.; Miss Gertrude and Miss Dorothy Walke, of Norfolk; Mr. and Mrs. Heath, of Petersburg, Va.

After a bridal tour Mr. and Mrs. Davenport will return to make their home at No. 608 East Franklin Street. The wedding was one of the most elegant and fashionable that has taken place in Richmond this winter.

Goodridge-Atkins.

A wedding of the greatest interest to many friends in Richmond, Norfolk and elsewhere will be that of Miss Florence Stanley Atkins to Mr. George McG. Goodridge, which will take place in the Monumental Church this afternoon at 6 o'clock.

Miss Lillian Atkins, the maid of honor, and the sister of the bride, will be her chief attendant. Mr. Harry Goodridge will be best man. The groomsmen will include Mr. Robert Peggam, Mr. Richard Taylor and Mr. Hunter Bell, of Norfolk; Mr. Jack Prior, of New York; Mr. Lewis Dobbie and Mr. Frank McCarthy, of Richmond.

Goodridge and his party reached Richmond from Norfolk last night, and are at the Jefferson Hotel.

Of the other guests that are here for the wedding, Mrs. Louisa Hillard and Miss Guida Chamberlaine, of Norfolk, and Mrs. John J. Gibson, of Chicago, will be entertained by Miss Marianne Meade, of No. 105 South Third Street.

Miss Elizabeth Bowdoin will be with Mrs. Egbert Leigh, at No. 564 West Franklin Street, and Misses Mabel Chamberlaine and Emily Alden, also of Norfolk, will be with Mrs. C. W. P. Brock, at No. 208 East Franklin Street. Miss Mabel Chamberlaine, of the Norfolk party, will be the guest of Mrs. White, at No. 713 East Franklin Street.

Mrs. Ella Goodridge will be with the groom and his friends at the Jefferson.

Boykin-Neal.

A pretty quiet wedding was celebrated in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Neal yesterday forenoon at 10 o'clock, when the daughter, Elizabeth Maryman, became the bride of Mr. Henry Edgar Boykin, a prominent young business man of Benson, N. C.

Miss Margaret Anne Neal, the sister of the bride, groomed in white silk over taffeta, was the maid of honor. She carried pink roses.

The bride wore a blue cloth traveling costume, with a blue picture hat. Her flowers were white roses. The parlors were prettily decorated with palms and cut flowers, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. W. E. Evans, of Monumental Episcopal Church.

The wedding ring, used successively by four brides, was first placed on the finger of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Nancy Street Merriam, fifty years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Boykin left yesterday on the noon train for a Northern tour. They will be at home to friends in Benson, N. C., after February 23d.

The Retreat will submit their work to the board of managers to-day. A full meeting of the board is, therefore, urgently requested.

A finch party will be given under the auspices of the Masonic Home Auxiliary at Masoule Hall, on Twenty-fifth Street, between M and N Streets, to-day at 8:30 P. M. A pleasant evening is promised guests. Refreshments will be included in the charge of admission.

Personal Mention.

One of the pleasantest events of this evening will be the lecture to be given by Mr. Y. A. C. Hall, by Admiral Webster, for the benefit of the Valentine Kindergarten.

The lecture will be splendidly illustrated and offers an unusual and delightful opportunity for all who may attend.

Mrs. F. Denne Manley will entertain at what is her home Friday afternoon of this week at 4 o'clock.

The Emma Andrews Whist Club will meet with Mrs. Gordon Wallace Friday at 4:30 o'clock, in No. 802 West Grace Street. Several exceptionally important matters are to be considered.

Mrs. Gaines, of Warrenton, Va., is the guest of Mrs. C. C. Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Spratley entertained a large house party at their beautiful home, at Elberton, Surry county, Va., during the recent holidays. There was hunting, riding, driving and feasting galore. An invitation from the host and hostess to the guests and neighbors to a fox hunt and a hunt breakfast on November 26th was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Among those who participated were Messrs. S. B. Barham, John Barham, M. P. H. John Chapel, Ernest Lane, William Lane, Harry Spratley, Garnet Spratley, Thomas Gardner, Read, Thomas Dickinson, W. Davis Spratley, Thomas W. Parker, S. L. Spratley, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Spratley, Miss Louise Spratley, Mr. Perry Price, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Spratley, Messrs. Cocks, Gathewney brothers, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Nelson and Mr. Charles W. Smith.

Mrs. Everett Waddy will entertain at 5:30 afternoon in her home, No. 618 West Grace Street, in honor of her friend, Mrs. Sperry.

Mr. Branch Wortham, of Hampden-Sidney, Va., has removed to Denver, Col., where he will make his home in future.

The "Just For Fun" Club, which was organized at the home of the weather, will meet Friday night at the home of Miss Bessie Lamb.

Miss Ella Eggleston left yesterday for a visit to friends in Lynchburg.

Mrs. Robert Carter, of "Shirley," is the guest of Miss Mattie Bolling, at No. 204 West Franklin Street.

HOUSEWIFELY HINTS.

If some cooked Brussels sprouts are found in the refrigerator, save them for dinner of the day before the base of an excellent soup is at hand. Heat and press through a sieve, and mix with a pint or more of hot milk, which has been well seasoned and very slightly thickened, and to which a small lump of butter has been added.

As a change from the usual flour gravy, try serving with roast meats the following sauce, which is much used by the Germans. Put an ounce and a half of butter into a stewpan, a sprig of parsley chopped fine, the juice and thin skin of a lemon, and four egg-sized yolks which have been skinned, and from which many of the seeds have been removed; pepper and salt to taste. Add to this a quarter of a pint of water, set over the fire for about ten minutes, or until very hot or just ready to boil.

A salmon soufflé is one of the most delicate ways to serve the fish, and will be a revelation to the housekeeper who has contented herself with turning the contents of a can of salmon on a platter and sending it to the table. Make a white sauce of two tablespoonsful, each, of butter and flour, one teaspoonful of salt, a dash of white pepper, and one pint of milk; add one cup of stale bread crumbs, grated, a few drops of onion juice, a teaspoonful of chopped parsley, and the salmon from a single can, freed from skin and bones and rubbed fine with a silver fork. Beat the ingredients together thoroughly, then beat in the beaten yolks of three eggs, and lastly, fold in the whites of the eggs, beaten stiff. Turn the mixture into a buttered baking dish; bake in a moderate oven, the dish standing in hot water, about thirty-five minutes. Serve at once, either with or without sauce.

THE STORM KING.

The day is dying, sombre-browed; Its gloom affrights each tender flower; But o'er the land you mountain grand, O Storm King, hold, I trust in thee. Thou emblem of eternity! Alone thou art; oh, would my heart, Like thee alone, were strong like thee!

I saw the sunset redder wild, One last despairing smile of fate; An instant bright in face of night, Another thorough-thorn, then late, O Storm King, high, inspire my soul To such nobility as thine!

Westward the Course of Empire.

By BISHOP BERKELEY.

George Berkeley was born at Dysart Castle, Kilkenny, Ireland, March 12, 1685, and died at Oxford, England, Jan. 14, 1753. He was a graduate of Trinity College, Dublin. Sailed for Newport, R. I., Sept. 4, 1732, remained in America until 1734, became Bishop of Cloyne, Ireland, in 1735. His famous poem, not on his poem, which are few, but on his philosophical works, which are known to the learned of every land. He called the following lines, "On the Prospect of Planting Arts and Learning in America."

HE Muse, disgusted at an age and clime
Barren of every glorious theme,
In distant lands now waits a better time,
Producing subjects worthy fame.

In happy climes, where from the genial sun
And virgin earth such scenes ensue,
The force of art by nature seems outdone,
And fancied beauties by the true.

In happy climes, the seat of innocence,
Where nature guides and virtue rules,
Where men shall not impose for truth and sense,
The pedagogy of courts and schools;

There shall be sung another golden age,
The rise of empire and of arts,
The good and great inspiring epic rage
The wisest heads and noblest hearts.

Not such as Europe breeds in her decay;
Such as she bred when fresh and young,
When heavenly flame did animate her clay,
By future poets shall be sung.

Westward the course of empire takes its way;
The four first acts already past,
A fifth shall close the drama with the day;
Time's noblest offspring is the last.

ANIMAL STORIES FOR OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

A False Friend.

There was once a crane, who had for his very good friend a monkey. The monkey, who was extremely mischievous, got the crane into a great deal of trouble; but the worst thing he ever did I am going to tell you about.

The crane had been a man playing on a flute, and longed very much to do the same. "What a pity," said the monkey, "your beak will be the very thing. I'll drill the holes in it, through which you can blow sweet music."

The crane pranced for joy. "I can play at all the dances," he cried. For you must know that cranes are very fond of going dances and going to dances. All his friends were glad to see him. Miss Isabella Crane will gladly become my bride when

"WHY NOT?" "No doubt," said the monkey, "and in your day or grandeur I hope you will remember that you owe it all to me."

For alas and alas! When the mischievous monkey got those holes drilled through the crane's beak, not a sound could he make; even his old cry, which was not very pretty, came stridling and whistling. "I am ruined!" cried the crane. And it was so. The young crane lady whom he had hoped to marry said she did not desire a damaged article. All the other cranes cast him out and would have nothing to do with him. "This comes," said the monkey, "from being so ambitious. Whoever heard of a crane attempting to be a musician?"

The Four Great Crops.

Ordinary persons who undertake to name in order the most valuable four crops raised in this country during the past year will probably, if turning to the statistic for verification, lose confidence in the sufficiency of their information. Everybody, of course, would include cotton, and probably a majority would put corn first. But few would include hay, and fewer still would place it above wheat. This, however, is the order—corn, cotton, hay and wheat.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

DAILY FASHION HINTS.

Boys' Reefer.

No. 4329.—Every mother knows that boys' ready-made clothes, especially when they are no longer a little fellow, are almost as expensive as men's clothes. Few mothers feel that they are able to make an overcoat for their boys, and few fathers, and a few yards of cloth, or, perhaps, a discarded overcoat, a most satisfactory garment can be fashioned at home at slight expense. In the model shown here we have a coat of the regulation style, composed of front, back, coat sleeve in two portions, and the collar. Surely not enough pieces to frighten the amateur dressmaker, and every piece is notched and the directions so explicit that not the slightest difficulty will be found in putting the garment together. The finishing of the garment, which gives it that tailor-made look, is done by the machine being careful to make the stitching true. Covert cloth, kersey melton, cheviot and serge are materials that are usually employed in the construction of such a garment.

SULTAN SCARED BY FACE POWDER

A rather comical incident, which has just taken place inside the walls which surrounded the harem of Sultan Abdul Hamid shows how strong is his fear of face powder.

One of the inmates of the harem, who was high in the favor of her master, had learned from a visitor the use of face powder and bribed one of the eunuchs to send to Vienna for a particular brand.

In due time the box arrived at Yildiz Kiosk only to be seized immediately by the secret agents of the sultan.

With all precautions the suspicious box was sent to the laboratory of the army, while the agents reported to the sultan that they had found the contents of the box harmless.

The eunuch, who had been taken from his prison, but punished with banishment for the aid to Vienna for having caused the sultan unnecessary worry.—New York Journal.

ALUMNI OF INSTITUTE

Mr. Joseph R. Anderson is to Publish Complete Roster of Matriculates.

IS COLLECTING THE DATA

Volume to be Put on Sale and Net Proceeds Devoted to Erection of Alumni Hall.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 3.—Alumni of the Virginia Military Institute who reside in this city are much interested in the movement to have published a complete roster of all matriculates of the Institute since it was founded. The volume is being prepared by Mr. Joseph R. Anderson, Lee, Goodland county, Va., and he is busily engaged in collecting data. He has written to as many of the old cadets as he can locate, asking them to furnish him with biographical sketches not exceeding three hundred words in length.

It is estimated that since the Institute was founded in 1820 there have been approximately five thousand five hundred matriculates, many of them among the famous men of the country. Many more were lost sight of soon after their school days, and while they may have accomplished much in the struggle of life, they are unknown to the comrades of today. The object of the work which Mr. Anderson is doing is to rescue these names from oblivion and to bring the living sons of the Institute in closer touch with alma mater.

When all the data possible has been obtained, it is the intention of Mr. Anderson to embody it in one or two volumes and offer the work for sale. The proceeds of the sale, after the cost of the edition shall have been paid, will be devoted to forming the nucleus of a fund to be expended in erecting on the grounds of the Institute an alumni hall. It is proposed to make the building suitable for the accommodation of the old cadets who attend the numerous reunions of the alumni, and it will be dedicated to the memory of all the graduates and the elites of the Virginia Military Institute who gave their lives for their country. It is said that at least two hundred and fifty Institute men have been killed in battle or died in military service.

The following form is being sent to the graduates by Mr. Anderson, as a guide to be used in the preparation of the sketches which will appear in the biographical volume:

Full name (all names written out); names of parents and grandparents; residence of parents at time of matriculation; place and date of birth; period of cadetship (approximately); mention if ever a student at any other institution of learning; occupation or profession before the war of 1861; war record, command or successful commands, rank, if killed or wounded state in what battle; if prisoner state where captured and how long held; occupation or profession after the war; notable achievements, honors or distinctions (military, literary, ecclesiastical, scientific or political); interesting incidents in career; permanent postoffice address.

TO PAY THE CLAIMS.

Senator Martin Introduces General Measure in Senate.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 3.—Senator Martin has introduced in the Senate a bill for the investigation of claims for War and the settlement of claims for the use and occupation of school buildings and grounds for government purposes by the United States military authorities during the war between the States, and all claims for damages resulting from the appropriation to government use of any of the furnishings or materials in buildings in the class named by the bill.

The bill directs the Secretary of War to cause to be investigated by the Quartermaster-General of the army all claims of the character indicated, to determine the actual value of the property taken, or the amount of damages done, and to report back to Congress.

It is further provided that proof heretofore taken in such cases, and now on file in the office of the Quartermaster-General, or in the Treasury Department, or the possession of the file clerk of the Senate or House of Representatives, may be used as evidence in the consideration of such claims under the provisions of this act, and such weight given thereto as in the judgment of the Secretary of War is right and proper.

DIES FROM STUBBING TOE.

Blood Poison Set in and Killed New York Plumber.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—From blood poisoning, resulting from stubbing his toe against the ironwork under his bath tub at his home, No. 312 Evers Street, Brooklyn, about six months ago, George W. Cager, for years a well known plumber in the Eastern District Hospital last night, died of pneumonia.

No bruise was visible after the injury, but Mr. Cager gradually grew ill. He supposed he had pneumonia until two weeks ago, when he was obliged to go to bed and call a doctor. Then the blood poisoning was discovered.

MAN WHO TRIED TO STEAL LOCOMOTIVE

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Feb. 3.—Samuel Shaw, a plumber of this city, tried to run away with a locomotive from the C. and W. Railroad yesterday. The locomotive was standing at the round-house, with engine and tender, under the hands of some repairs.

Suddenly it began to move, and the engineer quickly crawled from beneath the boiler, and pushed the locomotive off the track and went down the bank.

The locomotive was stopped by the fireman, who was on duty, and who had been notified, arrived they found Shaw seated in the cab. He would not explain his actions and was locked up.
